

GET INVOLVED

Careers

The Ayn Rand Institute (ARI) is seeking energetic self-starters interested in increasing the number of people discussing and exploring Ayn Rand's ideas. We offer competitive salaries along with a generous benefits program, including health and dental coverage (for full-time employees, the premiums are almost entirely employer-paid). We also offer matching funds for your retirement account, a paid-time-off system and ten paid holidays per year. Our office headquarters are located in Santa Ana, California.

Those interested in employment with ARI should forward their résumé and a cover letter with salary expectations to careers@aynrand.org. Evidence of eligibility to work in the United States will be required. Completion of an ARI Employment Application will be requested before being considered for an interview. Candidates to whom an offer is extended are subject to background screening and are required to sign an ARI Employee Confidentiality Agreement.

While we thank all applicants for their interest in employment, we are able to contact only those to whom we can offer an interview. No phone calls, please.

Currently, ARI has the following open positions:

Content Marketing Coordinator / Strategist

The Ayn Rand Institute (ARI) is seeking a part-time Content Marketing Coordinator or full-time Content Marketing Strategist (depending on level of experience). This is a remote work position.

The Content Marketing Coordinator / Strategist is responsible for promoting and marketing ARI's content on social and other media with the goal of growing its reach and impact, through promotion, experimentation, measurement and managing an ongoing feedback loop with the content team. The Content Marketing Coordinator / Strategist is also responsible for helping to coordinate the production of content.

Preferred applicants have experience in digital marketing. Recent ARU enrollment strongly preferred. Candidates need an excellent grasp of written and verbal communication skills. A qualified candidate is a detail-oriented person able to multitask and work independently under pressure and tight deadlines. Superior communication skills are necessary, including exceptional writing skills. Excellent computer skills are mandatory (knows social media and can easily learn other software), coupled with an ambition to continue growing knowledge and skills. Strong project-management skills are required. Must be well acquainted with Objectivism and have a strong interest in Ayn Rand's thought and development.